Hello Year 3!

Here are this week's home learning activities. If you only manage to do one thing this week, please make sure that one thing is listening to the story below...

A lovely story about loving and being proud of who you are:

Please follow this link to listen to a story being read about a little girl who wished for her black skin to be light. It teaches a very important lesson to us all.

English:

I hope you enjoyed last week's activities on forests. This week is all about exploring characters from different stories and finding new vocabulary. At the end of the week, you can decide which character is your favourite!

Science:

Investigate if you can drop a raw egg without breaking it. Make sure you cover the floor with newspaper first! You could try wrapping it in different materials, make a parachute or a case. Think about how to make your test fair. Predict which method will work best and record your attempts.

Check in with your feelings:

Our mental health is always very important as it can affect how we feel physically. Make sure you spend some time thinking about how you're feeling.

Have you experienced any of these feelings recently? Write a sentence and include the feelings word. Here is one of mine:

On Wednesday, I felt proud of the children at school who created stunning sun catchers.

Have fun!

Love,

Mrs Lonsdale xx
